ANNUAL INDEX—VOLUME 78

(This volume is paginated continuously)

ARTICLES

An American Poet Laureate's German Connection. Gustave Bording Mathieu. 10–12.

The Biography of a Biographer: Hans Roger Madol (1903–1956). Oliver B. Pollak. 74–85.

Destabilizing Typologies: Jewish Works, Christian Faith, and the Passage from Orient to Occident in G. E. Lessing's Ernst und Falk: Gespräche für Freimäurer. Jeffrey S. Librett. 301–18.

A Festschrift to Inge Halpert: Introduction. Mark M. Anderson. 3–6.

Going Home Again? Ruzowitzky's Die Siebtelbauern and the New Austrian Heimatfilm. Robert von Dassanowsky. 133–47.

Heidegger, Technology, and the Homeland. Charles Bambach. 267–82.

Heimlichkeit und Schriftlichkeit: Das österreichische Strafprozessrecht in Franz Kafkas Roman Der Proceß. Wolf Kittler. 194–222.

"Homecoming": Translation by Gustave Bording Mathieu. Gustave Bording Mathieu. 8–9.

Interview with JoAnne Akalaitis. Martin Puchner. 261–64.

Kafka and the Theater: Introduction. Martin Puchner. 163–65.

Kafka's Antitheatrical Gestures. Martin Puchner. 177–93.

The Kafka Theater of New York. Shawn-Marie Garrett. 250–60.

Landscapes of Exile: Celan's "Gespräch im Gebirg." Arnd Bohm. 99–111.

Lessing's "Jewish" Questions. Willi Goetschel. 62–73.

The Love Affair with the Mother Tongue: On the Relation Between Autobiography and Novel in Elias Canetti. Walter H. Sokel. 39–48.

Männerfreundschaften, Frauenopfer und andere unerhörte Taten: Umschreibungen der "tauridischen" Iphigenie in deutschprachigen Dramen des 18. Jahrhunderts. Gaby Pailer. 113–32.

A Musical Drama as Cultural Catalyst: The Byways of Kurt Weill's Der Weg der Verheißung. Guy Stern. 49–54.

". . . nicht mit großen Tönen gesagt": On Theater and the Theatrical in Kafka. Mark M. Anderson. 167–76.

A Personal Tribute [to Inge Halpert]. Ellin Feld. 7.

Radical Play: Gesture, Performance, and the Theatrical Logic of the Law in Kafka. Klaus Mladek. 223–49.

Rethinking Nietzche in Mann's Doktor Faustus: Crisis, Parody, Primitivism, and the Possibilities of Dionysian Art in a Post-Nietzschean Era. Andrew Erwin. 283–99.

The Silent Generation? Jewish Refugee Students, Germanistik, and Columbia University. Mark M. Anderson. 20–38.

Twilight Memories: The Eclipse of German Jewish Culture in Argentina. Frederick A. Lubich. 55–61.

The Way We Were: Reminiscences of Columbia's German Department. Guy Stern. 13–19.

REVIEWS

Erinnerung im globalen Zeitalter: Der Holocaust. Daniel Levy and Natan Sznaider. Rev. by Andreas Huyssen. 86–91.

German National Cinema. Sabine Hake. Rev. by Robert von Dassanowsky. 149–53.

Die kurze Geschichte der deutschen Literatur. Heinz Schlaffer. Rev. by Willi Goetschel. 92–93.

Reading Rilke: Reflections on the Problems of Translation. William H. Gass. Rev. by Paul Reitter. 153–56.

Stage Fright: Modernism, Anti-Theatricality, and Drama. Martin Puchner. Rev. by Veronika Fuechtner. 322–24.

Werke. Erster bis fünfzehnter Band. Peter Hacks. Rev. by Holger Helbig. 319–22.

AUTHORS AND REVIEWERS

Anderson, Mark M. A Festschrift to Inge Halpert: Introduction. 3–6.
———. ". . . nicht mit großen Tönen gesagt": On Theater and the Theatrical in Kafka. 167–76.
———. The Silent Generation? Jewish Refugee Students, Germanistik, and Columbia University. 20–38.
Bambach, Charles. Heidegger, Technology, and the Homeland. 267–82.
Bohm, Arnd. Landscapes of Exile: Celan's "Gespräch im Gebirg." 99–111.
Erwin, Andrew. Rethinking Nietzche in Mann's Doktor Faustus: Crisis, Parody, Primitivism, and the Possibilities of Dionysian Art in a Post-Nietzschean Era. 283–99.
Feld, Ellin. A Personal Tribute [to Inge Halpert]. 7.
Fuechtner, Veronika. Stage Fright: Modernism, Anti-Theatricality, and Drama. Martin Puchner. 322–24.
Garrett, Shawn-Marie. The Kafka Theater of New York. 250–60.
Goetschel, Willi. Die kurze Geschichte der deutschen Literatur. Heinz Schlaffer. 92–93.
———. Lessing's "Jewish" Questions. 62–73.
Helbig, Holger. Werke. Erster bis fünfzehnter Band. Peter Hacks. 319–22.
Huyssen, Andreas. Erinnerung im globalen Zeitalter: Der Holocaust. Daniel Levy and Natan Sznaider. 86–91.
Kittler, Wolf. Heimlichkeit und Schriftlichkeit: Das österreichische Strafprozessrecht in Franz Kafkas Roman Der Proceß. 194–222.
Librett, Jeffrey S. Destabilizing Typologies: Jewish Works, Christian Faith, and the Passage from Orient to Occident in G. E. Lessing's Ernst und Falk: Gespräche für Freimäurer. 301–18.
Lubich, Frederick A. Twilight Memories: The Eclipse of German Jewish Culture in Argentina. 55–61.
Mathieu, Gustave Bording. An American Poet Laureate's German Connection. 10–12.
———. "Homecoming": Translation by Gustave Bording Mathieu. 8–9.
Mladek, Klaus. Radical Play: Gesture, Performance, and the Theatrical Logic of the Law in Kafka. 223–49.
Pailer, Gaby. Männerfreundschaften, Frauenopfer und andere unerhörte Taten: Umschreibungen der "tauridischen" Iphigenie in deutschprachigen Dramen des 18. Jahrhunderts. 113–32.
Pollak, Oliver B. The Biography of a Biographer: Hans Roger Madol (1903–1956). 74–85.
Puchner, Martin. Interview with JoAnne Akalaitis. 261–64.
———. Kafka and the Theater: Introduction. 163–65.
———. Kafka's Antitheatrical Gestures. 177–93.
Reitter, Paul. Reading Rilke: Reflections on the Problems of Translation. William H. Gass. 153–56.
Sokel, Walter H. The Love Affair with the Mother Tongue: On the Relation Between Autobiography and Novel in Elias Canetti. 39–48.
Stern, Guy. A Musical Drama as Cultural Catalyst: The Byways of Kurt Weill's Der Weg der Verheißung. 49–54.
———. The Way We Were: Reminiscences of Columbia's German Department. 13–19.
von Dassanowsky, Robert. German National Cinema. Sabin Hake. 149–53.
———. Going Home Again? Ruzowitzky's Die Siebtelbauern and the New Austrian Heimatfilm. 133–47.